

Reusable Beverage Containers

If you choose to use reusable beverage containers, two common options are aluminum and glass. Both of these options are recyclable, which means you will need to consider the recycling needs of the event.

Implementation

- Think about public access to water
- Think about how many people will be attending your event and how much recycling will be produced
- Think about the type of reusable beverage container you will be providing, if it is recyclable, and what people will do with their cup once they are finished with their beverage
- Think about having volunteers to help with recycling in order to ensure that all cups get recycled
